LAND
DEPARTMENT

Brother Dwayne Bey
Department of Land, Housing and Development

MISSION

The Department of Land, Housing and Development headed by Dwayne Bey will insure that potential land purchase is evaluated to be free from environmental contamination and is suitable for agricultural, residential, industrial, cultural, and recreational development for the Moorish Community.

The department oversees good-faith land purchase through the departments of law and finance. It will work with the Department of Agriculture to maintain up-to-date education and training and hold seminars on agricultural land use and how it can affect Mother Earth's water quality and watersheds as to the methods and types of crops being planted; and the tillage and irrigation practices that can limit water availability in other areas of the Moorish country.

The department also adhere to a non-toleration stance against illegal filling or soil removal activities; illegal dumping of debris or hazardous waste into streams, etc., that may cause health hazards. The housing and development branch of the department insures access to safe, livable, and affordable housing; regardless of income levels (single-family, condominiums, townhomes, apartments, etc.) which is in adherence to Universal Declaration of Human Rights.

This department seeks to provide development that is friendly to the environment and sustainable, such as, natural energy like solar and wind.
